HONGKONG AFFAIRS IN PARLIAMENT.

Constitutional Reform Turned Down.

COL. WARD SEEKS TO PUSH FORWARD WIRELESS STATION.

Service Men Liable for Income Tax.

(Reuter's Service).

Hongkong, February 22. In the House of Commons, Colonel John Ward asked for an early statement on the subject of representation of the British community on the Legislative Council of Hongkong, in view of the pressing necessity of representation of the British attitude on the question of slavery and the employment of young children.

Mr. Churchill replied that it had been decided to make no change in the numbers or mode of selection of the Legislative Council, whose present European members are fully able to represent the British attitude on all social questions.

London, February 22. In the House of Commons, Colonel John Ward asked whether immediate steps would be taken to construct a high-power wireless station in Hongkong, in accordance with the suggestion in a despatch from the Government of Hongkong, dated April 25, 1919.

Mr. Churchill replied that the Governor of Hongkong had not expressed a desire to proceed with this scheme separately from that of the Imperial Wireless Committee, and it is intended to await his views before considering further steps.

London, February 22. In the House of Commons, replying to a question as to whether naval men in India and China had been summoned to pay Income Tax on sums granted last year as compensation owing to the high price of silver, Mr. Chamberlain pointed out that the tax was payable on the bonus of all Service men, including those mentioned.

THE LONDON CONFERENCE.

Differences Between the Allies.

London, February 22. The proceedings at the London Conference are being narrowly watched in Paris, where preparations are already being made in political circles to overthrow M. Briand if he proves too conciliatory. The recent election of ex-President Foincare as President of the Senatorial Foreign Committee is regarded as significant in this connection. M. Foincare, who is a most stalwart upholder of French views, is already marked out as the successor of M. Briand. It is reported that mysterious military confabulations are proceeding in Paris with a view to having everything ready against the moment for enforcing Treaty rights against Germany.

Though the Conference yesterday afternoon was confined to merely preliminary examinations, the suddenness of its opening betokened differences between Britain on one side and France and Italy on the other, for the British planned that the conference of Greeks and Turk should open to-day. After a frank talk yesterday between the British, French and Italian delegates for the purpose of eliciting any concrete Franco-Italian proposals, the position now is that the Allies await the Turco-Greek views before examining their own differences. It is known that Britain favours the maintenance of the Turkish Treaty while Italy and France desire a revision, the former because resentful of Greece's gains and the latter inter alia because she desires to escape the commitments in Cilicia by arrangement with the Kemalists. Therefore Count Sforza, General Gouraud and other French military officials were the chief catechists of the Greeks yesterday, while the British and Japanese military experts were silent, though Mr. Lloyd George also exhaustively questioned Mr. Calogropoulos regarding the morale and effectiveness of the Greek Army. The British and French military experts disagree on the subject of the Kemalists' strength, the former disbelieving Kemal Pasha's grandiose pretensions and the latter opining that the Kemalists are formidable opponents.

The decision taken yesterday morning as regards Upper Silesia marked a welcome compromise in the conflicting Anglo-French views, and it finally disposes of rumours that the Allies have rebuffed Germany to meet the reparations claims by indefinitely postponing plebiscite, while France's assent to out-voters, who are mostly Germans, voting on the same day as the residents is counterbalanced by Britain's undertaking to send troops to prevent disturbances, which the French feared.

The Turkish Problem.

London, February 22. The British, French, Italian and Japanese delegates met in conference at Downing Street this morning and exchanged views on the Treaty of Sevres. They invited the Turkish delegates to attend a meeting to-morrow, but owing to the illness of Tewfik Pasha, who is confined to bed with a chill, the Turkish problem may not be considered before Thursday. The Greek General Magline and Colonel Theunis, accompanied by a Belgian delegate, attended during the conference. It is understood that the Greek Army is scarcely able to undertake a successful adventure in Anatolia without Allied aid and that M. Briand is strongly averse to the removal of the Allied embargo against the Greeks at present raising foreign loans.

BRITISH LOANS FROM AMERICA.

Chancellor of the Exchequer's Statement.

London, February 22. Replying to Major-General Sir J. H. Davidson in the House of Commons as regards the British Government's indebtedness to the United States, concerning which he stated that the most common misapprehension existed, Mr. Chamberlain said that $500,000,000 which Britain and France repaid in the autumn was raised by them on the New York market. The United States never loaned anything before entering into the war. Britain was never asked to guarantee any loans made by the United States to Allies. Mr. Chamberlain opined Britain would have found it unnecessary to borrow from the United States at all if she had not had to meet Allied calls for assistance.

THE JOCKEY CLUB RACES.

OPENING DAY FAVOURED BY IDEAL WEATHER.

Some Close Finishes Witnessed.

The sporting event of year—Hongkong's Race Meeting—opened to-day under the pleasantest of auspices. It is an event that has been looked forward to with very great anticipation for it has been known long since that, given fine weather, the 1921 Meeting would prove to be a record. It can be safely said that never before has pony racing in Hongkong been so enthusiastically supported or so keenly followed. When the ponies began to arrive from the North during November and December it seemed as if there would be no end to them. There were over 200 ponies in the stables at one time and, although a fair number of these have since been discarded, the entries constitute a very easy record.

Figures speak louder than anything else, and the following will prove the wonderful popularity that racing is now enjoying. Taking ponies first, there were 107 entered for the meeting in 1918, 119 in 1919, 137 in 1920 and no fewer than 156 this year. This is not merely a matter of individual owners having more ponies, but also due to the fact that the number of stables has increased. There were 38 stables in 1918, 43 in 1919, 49 in 1920, whilst 58 is the number reached this year. Regarding entries, the amount of money paid in entrance fees is also a record, a total of about $12,000 having been paid. In 1918 there were 940 entries, in 1919 1,020, in 1920 nearly 1,500. By the time the post-entries for the Champion Stakes and the consolation races on the fourth day have been received there will be well over 1,600 entries for this year.

It is thus seen that our annual race meeting grows bigger and bigger each year. And this year's meeting is more than usually interesting by reason of the fact that for the first time in the history of Hongkong racing there are a number of lady owners. This was made possible by the alteration in the Jockey Club's rules last year. It is encouraging to find that five lady owners figure in the list, and doubtless this number will be increased by the time another meeting comes round. There are some extremely big stables this year, the list being headed by Mr. John Peel, who has no less than 14 in his string. Sir Paul has 13, George Potts 11, Sir Ellis Kadoorie and Mr. Soares 6 each and Mr. Fash and Mr. Nemazez five each.

Of course the main interest will centre in the Derby being run to-morrow. There were 27 entries for the classic event in 1918, 21 in 1919, 31 in 1920, whilst this year there are 32. As a good many of these ponies have trained to something of a level it is expected that the field will be a large one.

There have been one or two improvements carried out this year regarding the convenience of those within the enclosure. Three bamboo stands have been erected close to the Judge's Box and from these the public not able to find accommodation in the general stand will have good views of the racing. A new Judge's Box has also been provided. The stands and enclosure presented their usual gay appearance this morning, all the old favourite colours being seen. As in former years, there is a good contingent of jockeys down from Shanghai and it is pleasing to report that the number of Hongkong riders is increasing year by year. For the first time we have a Chinese rider, Mr. Yih, who has come down from Shanghai to assist Mr. John Johnstone with John Peel's large stable. If rumour does not lie, this is the last Race Meeting at which Mr. Johnstone will be riding, for he is shortly due for retirement. Mr. Johnstone's association with the Hongkong Race Meeting has been a long and successful one. A familiar figure in the person of Mr. T. F. Hough is absent this year, his position as Clerk of the Course having been assumed by Mr. J. R. Paterson who justly deserves a word of praise for the great amount of hard work he has put into the organising of the Meeting.

The Patron for the year is H.E. Sir Reginald Stubbs, K.C.M.G., whilst the following are Hon. Stewards:—H. E. Vice-Admiral Sir Alexander Duff, K.C.B., H. E. Major General Sir G. M. Kirkpatrick, K.C.S.I., K.C.B., Hon. Mr. Claud Severn, C.M.G., and Commodore W. Bowden Smith, C.B.E. The Stewards are Sir Paul Chater, C. M. G., Lieut.-Col. G. K. Hall Brutton, Mr. R. M. Dyer, Mr. Henry Humphreys, Hon. Mr. J. Johnstone, Lieut.-Col. W. Loring, C.M.G., D.S.O., Brig.-Gen. E. B. Macnaghten, C.M.G., D.S.O., Mr. G. Moxon, Mr. A. G. Stephen and Mr. H. P. White. The Stewards in Charge of the Scales are Lieut.-Col. Hall Brutton and Mr. Henry Humphreys; Mr. F. B. Marshall is Judge; Mr. D. E. Clark, Assistant Judge; Brig.-Gen. Macnaghten, second starter; Mr. W. Fiddes-Wilson, second starter; Mr. M. S. Sassoon, timekeeper; Messrs. Linstead and Davis, Secretaries and Treasurers; and Mr. R. J. Paterson, Clerk of the Course.

The usual police arrangements were under the supervision of Inspectors Garrod and Kent. Owing to the long spell of dry weather, the course was extremely hard and fast. In the words of an enthusiast, it was a course "on which favourites should win." H. E. the Governor and party arrived just before 12 o'clock and were met by Sir Paul Chater and several Stewards. The band of the Wiltshire Regiment (under Bandmaster J. W. Eaton) rendered an enjoyable and lengthy programme of music. The band of H. M. S. Hawkins will play to-morrow. The first jockey to weigh in was Mr. J. Johnstone, riding Tiddleywinks. By the time the first race was run a big crowd was present. There was a big field for the first race, no fewer than seventeen ponies facing the starter.

TEA SHOP STRIKE SETTLED.

Free Hair-Cuts for Employees!

After a prolonged period of negotiations, during which every means that could be thought of was applied in an attempt to secure a settlement of the many complicated issues of the question, the disagreement between the proprietors of native tea-shops and their foks, which led to a strike and the suspension of business, came to a termination in the offices of the Secretary of Chinese Affairs yesterday.

The grievances of the men principally referred to the unsatisfactory amount of the bonus, which, in these shops, has developed into a system of taxation on various provisions purchased by the proprietors for the business. As the rate of pay in these shops was insignificant in comparison with the bonus, into which it had, in fact, become merged when considering the scale of pay to be given, considerable dissatisfaction was expressed by the foks, who, in desire to improve their status in this regard, took the question of bonus into consideration in their arguments. It had then become necessary, in view of the varied characters of the demands, to abandon the percentage system and to allocate a separate bonus on each of the provisions purchased by the shops in the course of their business.

There is now to be a bonus for the cigarettes sold by the shop, a bonus on the cakes sold, and a bonus on the wooden cases sold to the marine hawkers. In effect, the question wholly concerned the bonus. Taxation would be a more descriptive word for it. And, lastly, that the personal appearance of the foks may be in keeping with the dignity of his calling, proprietors are henceforth required to supply each of his employees at suitable periods with the cost of a hair-cut. All of these demands were generally acceded to by the employers at yesterday's discussion presided over by the Hon. Mr. S. B. C. Ross.

Subsequent to the race, the Stewards disqualified Pawnshop for crossing. The race therefore goes to Louza, 1st; Frampton, 2nd; and Coal King, 3rd.

THE RACING STAKES.—Winner $600. Second $200. Third $100. For Grifins on date of entry and Ponies that have never won a Race. THE LONDON CONFERENCE.

London, Feb. 22.
The inauguration of the Conference in London, which affect the happenings, even the existence, of millions of people, are singularly lacking in spectacular interest, the absence of big, popular figures like M. Clemenceau, President Wilson and M. Venizelos probably accounting for the smallness of the crowd that awaited the arrival of the delegates. Nevertheless the dramatic elements were not wanting in confrontations of rivals among the numerous statesmen, officials and experts crowding the hotels. For instance the Kemalists, who declare they will not recognise the Tewfikites, are staying at the Savoy where the Tewfikites are also accommodated.

Though the Conference yesterday afternoon was merely for preliminary examinations, the suddenness of its opening betokened the differences of Britain on the one side and France and Italy on the other, for the British planned the conference of the Greeks and Turks to open to-day after a frank talk yesterday among the Anglo-French-Italian delegates for the purpose of eliciting any concrete Franco-Italian proposals. The position now is that the Allies will await the Turco-Greek views before examining their own differences. It is known that Britain favours the maintenance of the Turkish Treaty. Italy and France desire a revision, the former because she is resentful of Greece's gains and the latter, inter alia, because of her desires to escape commitments in Cilicia by arrangement with the Kemalists.

Therefore Signor Sforza, General Gouraud and other French military representatives were the chief catechists of the Greeks yesterday, while the British and Japanese military experts were silent, though Mr. Lloyd George also exhaustively questioned M. Calogeropoulos regarding the morale and effectiveness of the Greek Army. The British and French military experts disagree on the subject of the Kemalists strength, the former disbelieving Kemals grandiose pretensions and the latter being of the opinion that the Kemalists are formidable opponents. A decision taken yesterday morning as regards Upper Silesia marked a welcome compromise in conflicting Anglo-French views. It finally disposes of the rumours that the Allies bribed Germany to meet reparations claims by indefinitely postponing the plebiscite, while France's assent to out-voters, who are mostly Germans, voting on the same day as residents, is counterbalanced by Britain's undertaking to send troops to prevent disturbances which the French feared.

SINN FEIN PLOTS.

London, Feb. 22.
The newspapers give prominence to the captured Sinn Fein document read by Sir Hamar Greenwood in the House of Commons yesterday, dealing with the appropriation of £30,000 for "operations abroad," and outlining a scheme for wholesale destruction of property in England and Scotland and the encouragement of looting by mobs. The document was found in a raid on the headquarters of the Irish Republican Army, mentioned on 21st inst. It shows the intention not only to persist in a fire-raising campaign but to destroy blast-furnaces, possibly coalmines, damage telegraphs and telephones and wreck trains and tramway-cars.

ATLANTIC BLIZZARD.

St. Johns (Newfoundland), Feb. 22.
A blizzard is sweeping the Atlantic seaboard. It is the worst snowstorm experienced in Newfoundland this winter. Train and steamer services have been suspended and business is practically at a standstill. A fire, due to the use of candles, owing to the collapse of the electric system in consequence of the storm, destroyed the residence of the Roman Catholic Archbishop, who with nine priests and his domestic staff, narrowly escaped.

ITALIAN CONVENT SCHOOL.

Annual Report.

The following report was read by the Correspondent of R. C. School, Very Rev. Fr. P. de Maria, at the informal distribution of prizes, held at the Convent on the 21st inst.

It affords me very much pleasure to present my report on the Italian Convent School for the past year and to record the fact remarked by the Inspector of English Schools that "the School is evidently doing very good work."

The average daily attendance throughout the year was 407.54, being one in excess of the record number attained in 1919-1920, viz., 406.58. The highest enrolment was attained in the month of May, when there were 454 scholars on the rolls, as compared with 463 in March, 1919.

The staff is now one of 13 teachers and 4 assistant teachers, all of whom obtained their third year's teacher's certificate at the local Technical Institute. The official inspection of the school was carried out on three occasions, viz., March 22nd, June 23rd and 25th, and it is a matter of gratification that in point of discipline and sanitation the Inspector's report has been very good. Remarkably generally on the school as a whole the Inspector reports that "in the lower classes music plays a great part with very satisfactory results."

The singing is certainly a help to the learning of English and brightens the school life. During fine weather drill is taken in the open air. Much recitation is done in the school, both together and solo, and this teaches the pupils to speak out well. Great attention is also paid to sewing and embroidery, and the results appeared very attractive.

Outside school hours, shorthand is taught, the number of students taking it up being above one hundred per annum. There is a typewriting class with 10 typewriters and about 60 students.

There is also a painting class with 40 students. There are about 70 first class and about 80 second class boarders.

I would like to emphasise the existence of three special classes for older Chinese girls who wished to learn English. They are divided into Classes 8A, 8B and 7. The respective attendances at each were 25-28, 22-30, and 16-19. In colloquial English the Inspector found that class 8A was making a good start, Class B was able to make up short sentences and Class 7 was learning to parse satisfactorily. In the first two the writing was very good. This department of the school is one that should grow in popularity and until female education is universally adopted by the Chinese, as there is every reason to believe, that it is being adopted, its existence must be maintained for the class of girls for whom it has been specially started. I cannot help recalling the remark of His Excellency the Governor, Sir Reginald Stubbs, K.C.M.G., at the last annual prize-giving, when he spoke of the "many things the young ladies were taught—and so successfully taught as to satisfy the exacting standard of the Hongkong University." That they possessed other accomplishments which were not required by the University was shown at the last distribution of prizes of the school. Not long ago young Chinese ladies organised an exhibition of drawings and paintings for the purpose of raising funds for their distressed kinswomen in the famine afflicted area of North China, and I am happy to think that some of the exhibits were the products of girls who received their first lessons and qualified themselves in the art of painting in the Convent Schools.

Another remark of the Governor's on the occasion just alluded to is His Excellency's appreciation of Sir Robert Ho Tung's public spirit in providing a scholarship named after Lady Ho Tung for this institution which "so well deserved it." The scholarships have been awarded to Miss Maria Ozorio and Miss Cheong King-see; both these girls have obtained the University certificates. Sir Robert's interest in education in Hongkong is not an academic one only. He has proved a veritable benefactor in the cause of public instruction, and his recent large gift to the Hongkong University is one which stimulates educational activities in the Colony in general. I avail myself of this opportunity to record my gratitude and the gratitude of the school for the part he and Lady Ho Tung took in our branch school at Wanchai at the St. Francis School Prize-day on the 31st January last. I believe Sir Robert's interest in that school did not stop at the prize giving, and we sincerely hope that his endeavours in the school's behalf will be crowned with success.

Miss Elenor Thom is the recipient of the Lugard Scholarship for 1921-1922, and the Lugard Shield will receive an additional inscription for integrity and unselfishness last year in the name of Miss Margaret Holden.

In the University examinations the School was singularly successful last year. The Convent presented 10 Senior and 8 Junior candidates for the examinations in July. It speaks well for the teaching staff and for the pupils that all the 18 candidates passed. Of the Senior students 3 obtained honours, viz., Miss Dorothy Barwald, Miss Wazira Rumjahn, and Miss Hune Ki-chun. Sixteen gained distinctions in English, History, Biblical Knowledge, Drawing and Needlework.

A class was conducted in the Portuguese language for Portuguese children only. Miss Stella Joannilho obtained the first prize. The School has not neglected out-door games as a complement of its whole system of education. Races and out-door games in the Convent's garden were got up for the girls in the Convent's grounds. As usual the day scholars took part in the race set apart for this school at the annual athletic sports in Happy Valley held under the auspices of the St. Joseph's College Old Boy's Association.

BRITISH INFLUENCE IN KWANGTUNG.

A Canton Comment.

From the time China ceded the Island of Hongkong to Great Britain in 1842, says Canton Times, Britishers were destined to play an increasingly important part in the trade and internal development of the Kwangtung Province.
Controlling, as they do, the only available seaport through which must pass all the imports and exports of this province, the Government at Hongkong is in a position to facilitate or strangle the commerce and trade of Kwangtung.
In a word, Canton is, commercially, at the mercy of Hongkong.

That the Hongkong, or rather,
the British authorities are aware of their advantage has been frequently demonstrated. Whenever a controversy arises between the government at Canton and Foreign Powers, there is always a veiled threat given circulation to the effect that Hongkong will cut off all communication and isolate Canton from the rest of the world. This is the "big stick" which is constantly held over the heads of the Cantonese.

Now, there is no reason why the governments at Canton and Hongkong cannot co-operate for their mutual benefit. Kwangtung must have foreign capital for the development of her mines, construction of her railways, and promotion of her industries. There is every reason for the Cantonese to give the British the first chance in all these projects.
All other things being equal, it is only natural that the Cantonese should turn to their neighbour for assistance when they have so much in common.

But the Britisher is not popular with the Cantonese or with the Chinese in general. This is a fact which is dawning upon those Britishers who are really the best friends of China. This growing antipathy is not due to acts of aggression or unfairness on the part of the British merchants. It is entirely due to the incomprehensible stupidity of British policy in the Far East. Confining ourselves to China, a study of the history of the past few years reveals Great Britain always on the side of the reactionary forces in China. Great Britain backed Yuan
Shih kai and Tuan Chi jui. Great Britain backed Lung Chi-kwong and Lu Yung-ting. Great Britain with the other powers that follow her lead, is now prolonging the agony in Peking where Hsu Shih-chang is burlesquing the part of a chief executive. What is the motive behind this? What does Great Britain expect to gain by such a policy?

Some people surmise that Great Britain does not want China to have a republic because it would affect British control in India, for then the Indians would become impregnated with democratic ideals and clamour for a republic too, but India seems to be well on the road towards self-government despite the policy of Great Britain in China. So that cannot be the reason.

Whatever the reason may be, one thing is clear—the British have put every obstacle in the way of progressive movements in China. They have supported reactionaries and conservatives while they have opposed liberal and progressive leaders. They have insensitively forfeited their leadership and nullified the influence Great Britain might have had in the shaping of China's future.

When the Cantonese came back last October the Government made friendly overtures to Hongkong and expressed an earnest desire for the fullest and most open co-operation.
This elicited no response from the Hongkong Government. Those who advocated closer relations between the progressive leaders and Great Britain suffered a bitter humiliation.

Great Britain must change her policy or she will lose her influence in China. Gunboat diplomacy, threats and intimidations may serve to bolster up prestige, but they do not win respect. China is on the way to a front place in the family of nations. Her people will not rest satisfied with the institutions of antiquity. It is as futile to oppose China's progress by external hindrance, as it would be to oppose an earthquake with arguments. If Great Britain wishes to maintain her influence in China, the British policy must conform to the spirit of progress and the aspirations of an awakened people.

hundred immigrants arrived in

CHINA NEW YEAR
MOTOR SMASH.

The Jury on Cracker Bombs

Yesterday afternoon, Mr. R. E.
Lindsell and a jury concluded the enquiry into the recent motor-car tragedy in which a number of Chinese were killed and injured.

The evidence of several witnesses was taken, including that of the driver of the car, who stated that a cracker exploded close to his steering wheel and some of the segments from it lodged in his eyes.

The Coroner then submitted the following questions to the jury to answer: 1. Was the car in good running order prior to the accident? 2. Was the driver sober?
3. Did the driver do all he could under the circumstances? 4. What was the actual cause of the death of the woman, Cheung Kin, the subject of the enquiry? The Coroner added that it was clear in his mind that the real cause of the accident was a cracker thrown either from the upper floors or by pedestrians. It hit the car, and the explosion temporarily blinded the driver with the result that he had to swerve his car suddenly when he saw a small girl running in front of his car. If that was their finding they were justified in returning a verdict of manslaughter against some person or persons unknown.

The jury then retired, but was shortly recalled to the Court by the Coroner who informed them that Mr. Komor had ascertained that the speed meter of car No.
54 was numbered in kilometres.

Mr. Komor, recalled, said a new dial appeared to have been fitted to the speed meter. It read "Mile Meter Co." but recorded kilometres.

Before the jury retired again,
Mr. Lindsell, at the request of Inspector Garrod, read Sub-Section 13 of Section 3 containing the punishment for persons who injured persons or damaged property by throwing fire crackers.

After some deliberation, the jury answered the Coroner's first three questions in the affirmative.

HIGHER TECHNICAL SCHOOL.

Students Want University Status.

A great agitation is going on among the students at the Tokyo Higher Technical School because of the dubious prospects of their school being raised to the status of a University, as promised by the Minister of Education.

There has been a change in the Government's programme, largely due to the criticism now being made of the policy of the Education Department. As a sign of their indignation a general strike and even the entire closing down of the school are being seriously discussed among the students. In view of the dangerous possibility of some grave resolutions being adopted by them if they were allowed to come together, the school authorities declared the school closed on the 1st inst.

THE PEARY FLAGSTAFF.

Captain Godfred Hansen writes that the report that the flagstaff planted by Admiral Peary at the North Pole had drifted 400 miles cannot be correct. Admiral Peary planted a flagstaff at Cape Columbia, and it is the existence of this flagstaff which has given rise to the erroneous report.

TO-DAY'S MISCELLANY.

A very interesting question which arises out of Bethmann-Hollweg's death concerns the future of his big book on the war. This was to be his vindication not only against the diplomacy of the Allies but also against his enemies of the General Staff in Germany, who after long efforts, succeeded finally in expelling him from the Chancellorship, says a writer in a Home journal. Only the first volume has so far been published, and it only carries history up to the outbreak of the war. The Chancellor's opponents, on the other hand, like Ludendorff and Tirpitz, have already done their worst, having covered the whole war and published innumerable documents to prove that it was not they but Bethmann-Hollweg who lost the war. Many of these papers certainly either exhibit Bethmann's point of view or are actually State documents written by him, but he must have had a great deal more to say on his own behalf, and he would certainly have wished to rearrange the evidence in his own way.

The aim of Ludendorff and Hindenburg all through has been to suggest that Bethmann was a weak, shilly-shallying man who was not strong enough to carry Germany through the "iron times" about which they were always talking. In small things and in great they were rude to him about it. Ludendorff's great grievance has always been that Bethmann would not frankly accept the risks of the unrestricted submarine war, but would insist on all the dangers of failure and then thrust the responsibility on to G.H.Q. At the decisive conference, "We can and must begin," said the bluff Hindenburg, probably remembering his colossal status in Berlin. "Yes," rejoined Bethmann, "we must act if victory beckons" and Ludendorff puts the words into italics to indicate his contempt. He italicised another passage, too, where Bethmann, having damned the U-boat war with the faintest possible praise—prospects very favourable, of course, but quite incapable of proof, &c.—ended by saying that "if the military authorities regard the U-boat campaign, as necessary I am not in a position to oppose them." There was no doubt that if Bethmann was to hang he meant that the war chiefs should hang too. One hopes that he has left behind a good hefty chapter dealing with the subject.

FORE CASTLE TO VICE-

Career.

Lord Reading, whose acceptance of the position of Viceroy of India was recently announced, is 61 years of age, and has had a more romantic career than any previous Viceroy—or Lord Chief Justice.

His father, Joseph Isaacs was a fruit business. Young Rufus did not take kindly to the "office stool in father's business" idea and ran away to sea.

After some somewhat cooled by the hardship of serving before the mast he chose next the uncertainty of the Stock Exchange rather than the assured success of a merchant's office.

The Stock Exchange was no

BOOK FOR SCHOOLMASTER.

His subsequent career has doubtless been a surprise to his old schoolmaster.

One of his school-fellows has described him as the very worst of boys, from a schoolmaster's point of view.

"Lessons he left unlearned, class work he shirked, and mischief was his only devotion. My recollection of him is of a demoniacal young, mischievous imp, with sparkling eyes, who was always in disgrace or being caned, yet withal was ever merry and humorous."

"Isaac Secundus, you will go to the devil," was the prognostication of his schoolmaster.

At the Bar to which he was called in 1887, his mastery of Stock Exchange matters and figures made his prosecution of Whitaker Wright memorable.

Other cases in which he figured were the trial of Dr. Krause and that of Dr. Crippen.

He entered the House of Commons in 1904, but paid more attention to law than politics. But in 1910 he became Solicitor-General, and soon afterwards Attorney-General the first Attorney-General to be included in the Cabinet.

£30,000 A YEAR.

His capacity for work was amazing. Four or five hours sleep was sufficient, and he would be up at four in the morning, and read briefs for four hours before breakfast. His private legal practice was said at one time to have brought him in £30,000 a year.

In 1913 he became Lord Chief Justice, and during the war he did great work on the Anglo-French Loan mission to the United States, and latter as Special Envoy and Special Ambassador.

The new Viceroy married in 1887 a daughter of the late Albert Cohen, a City merchant, and has one son, Viscount Erleigh.

JAPANESE CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE IN CONFERENCE.

The Japanese Chambers of Commerce have just been in session, and the extensive agenda contained resolutions upon many matters of first-class importance, especially in relation to China. As a matter of fact, the programme was overloaded, between thirty and forty subjects being down for discussion. With only three days available, the time was hardly adequate to full treatment of all the themes. A notable feature of the proceedings was the presence of Mr. Yamasaki, the Consul-General at Shanghai, who surveyed the subject of commerce in its wider aspects. "In the intimate relations between Japan and China," he observed, "much depends on the bodies which you represent," and he asked his audience for sincerity of purpose, laying stress on the principle of the "open door" and equality of opportunity. Mr. Yamasaki enjoined co-operation with the people of other nations in helping China to develop her resources, and having regard to the vastness of these there is scope for all. The meeting was evidently in general sympathy with the trend of the Consul-General's statesmanlike views.

Japanese business men are obviously at pains, especially having regard to the falling-off in industry after the boom, to cultivate the good graces of their huge neighbour. The boycott consequent upon Shantung hit Japanese trade heavily, and, for the matter of that, has not been without a detrimental effect upon Chinese commerce, so that in both countries there are movements for improving relations. The Japanese commercial community recently made representations to their Government with a view to the solution of the Shantung problem, emphasising the prejudicial effect which the dispute exercised upon Japanese industries. Of course, Japanese traders are handicapped by the influence of the strong Chauvinistic element, but the Government at Tokio is evidently recognising the need of doing something to conciliate her neighbour. Recently it made a provisional offer of a substantial grant towards the foundation of a University for Chinese students. The liberality of the Japanese donations to the Famine Fund, including a contribution from thousands of Japanese children, has helped to better spirit.

Wide discussion has taken place of late in reference to Japanese ambitions in China, and many reports of Japanese infringement of China's sovereign rights have gained publicity, the precise value of which it is not always easy to assess. Baron Hayashi recently assured a London interviewer that Japan sought no special rights in China, and fully subscribed to the doctrine of the open door. We do not know how far the repudiation of special rights would be endorsed by Tokio. Probably it is largely a question of interpretation. In a sense Japan must have special interests, if not special rights, owing to the natural factor of her proximity. Political hegemony is another matter. So long as "the England of the East" observes the principle of the "open door" it should be quite possible for the nations to work together without any abnormal friction.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Ro-t.

In the course of a year we have lots of funny things sent to us. Sometime ago a generously minded person in the United States sent us some shares in a mine, provided we joined a Society. The share certificate was a fine looking document but we couldn't find the place where the mine was said to be and we didn't understand what the Society was all about. So our large "W.P.B." had to accommodate what the person concerned had spent ten gold cents to send us. The last mail in from the States brought us a little booklet about a new world language that the Rev. Edward P. Foster, A.M., has invented. It is called "Ro" and the English Key to it is called the "Roap." On the very front page we come across the interesting announcement that "Ro is wholly a priori. That is, it creates its own stemwords, taking none of them from other languages." Between pages 1 and 28 is crammed a whole lot of words that look like nothing on earth and suggest about as much. Let us take one example:—"Ye, abrev av ac ro id ab, ud ab yuk reb in Ro." That collection of monosyllables mean "Yes, I understand what you say to me, and I can think in Ro." On page 32 of the book we come across the information that "Ro is the a priori language, and it is written in the stars, as well as in logic and the absolute necessities of the world, that Ro is going to win." Perhaps it would be kind of us to urge our readers to swot this thing up in case they find themselves muttering the English language when it is dead as a doornail. But instead we are going to tell them not to worry, because we don't quite see where the Rev. Mr. Foster or anybody else has the right to worry us with twaddle of this kind. If Mr. Foster thinks he is going to scrap all the beautiful languages of the world and substitute something resembling a man suffering from St. Vitus' Dance trying to sneeze, he had better "come to" before his efforts drive him into a home for the incurably insane. He has asked us to review this book, and we have.

Progressive Canton.

We have been glad to notice of late a deal of evidence showing that there are amongst the present rulers in Canton men of a progressive and practical frame of mind, who are keen to the point of enthusiasm in working for the public weal. We have previously had occasion to refer to the decided transformation which has been effected by the opening up of new and broad thoroughfares in the city and to the many other improvements which have been effected. It is clear that from the municipal point of view Canton is now being well served for there are men working hard behind the scenes to make it a better, more modern and healthier city than it has ever been before. And they are succeeding, despite innumerable difficulties. To show that the progressive idea is abroad in Canton, let us cite the fact that plans are now under way for the holding of a Commercial and Industrial Exhibition, which is to be held in the spacious pavilion in the East Garden where the memorial services to the men who fell in the recent troubles are now taking place. The object of the Exhibition is to encourage the development of home manufactures, and prizes are to be awarded to the best exhibitors. The idea of utilising this pavilion for such a purpose is an excellent one, and General Chan King-ming, who is a leading spirit in the project, is to be commended for this further evidence of his deep interest in Canton affairs. Concentration on matters such as this and on municipal progress will yield far more than interminable squabbling on political affairs.

A Distinguished Visitor.

The Colony will soon have an opportunity of welcoming a distinguished visitor in the person of the Crown Prince of Japan, who is proceeding upon a lengthy itinerary in the course of which he will, of course, be entertained by King George. His Imperial Highness, who was born on April 29, 1901, will also call at the Court of Bucharest, thus reciprocating the visit to Japan of the Crown Prince of Roumania. While in Europe the Japanese Heir-Apparent will avail himself of the opportunity of inspecting of the theatres of the great war. The

OH! THE LITTLE MORE—AND

Gunner O. N. White has been posted to the Marazion, submarine depot ship at Hongkong; and Gunner C. H. Bulbeck to the Tamar at Hongkong.

Major G. C. Wainwright, Royal Marine Light Infantry, and Lieutenant K. E. Privite, of the same corps, have been appointed to the Hawkins, flagship of the China Station, on recommissioning.

Engineer-Commander A. W. J. Turner has been appointed to the river gunboat Bee on the Yangtze, and to the flotilla generally on the transfer of the flag of the S.N.O. Engineer-Commander Turner is presently serving on the Kinsia, which is the S.N.O.'s flagship.

Amongst the passengers who arrived by the P. and O. s.s. Karmala was Mrs. Drummond, wife of Mr. W. H. Drummond, the well-known barrister. Mrs. Drummond is a daughter of the late Sir Edmund Grimani Hornby, formerly Judge of the Supreme Court in Constantinople and afterwards Chief Justice of the Supreme Court for China and Japan at Shanghai.

At 4.30 p.m. yesterday afternoon, a sudden squall which sprang across the harbour capsize a cargo boat near the western entrance to the Yau-mai breakwater. She had aboard a crew of six persons and a small child, the son of the master, and a cargo of 150 piculs of iron bars. The crew were rescued by a motor boat, but the child was drowned.

The inimitable Harold Lloyd last night provided the fun of the evening at the Coronet in a fine comedy which featured also his new partner, Mildred Davis. A doctor newly launched into practice, a secret home-distillery, and a girl patient formed the ideas for this latest Lloyd comedy, which greatly adds to the reputation which this comedian has attained. There were a few gasps as Harold, saturated to the point of inebriation with the home-brew, walked on the narrow ledge round a building. Mae Murray is seen in a drama entitled "The Beloved Traitor," a really good story by that popular American author, Frank L. Packard.

Changes in the commands of British gunboats in Chinese waters are announced. The new captain of the Moorhen is Lieut.-Com. V. P. Alleyne, until recently executive officer of the light cruiser Constance. To the Robin, Lieut. J. M. Heath, from the sloop Laburnum, is appointed; while the new captains of the Woodcock and Woodlark are Lieuts. G. E. Boulbee, from the light cruiser Cardiff, and Ivan W. Whitehorn, hitherto second in command of the destroyer Shamrock in the Atlantic Fleet. Lieut. A. G. B. Wilson, D.S.O., who is to command the Scarab, belongs to the surveying branch, and since June last has been on the staff at the Submarine Depot at Gosport.

Crown Prince's party will travel on the Katori, the flagship of the Third Squadron, accompanied by the Kashima, both of which were constructed in Britain. It is an old practice for the heirs of European reigning houses to go globe-trotting—the Prince of Wales has lately won golden opinions while emulating his father and grandfather; but it is an innovation in the case of the dynastic house of Nippon. The impending tour has prompted speculation as to its purpose and political writers have been busy with theories, but it is stated that the object of the tour is educational rather than political. Seeing that the island Empire of the East has adopted so many features of Occidental civilisation and has many links with the West, it is a natural sequel that the Mikado's son should, like many of his countrymen, study Europe at first hand. Nothing contributed more to the popularity of the Prince of Wales during his recent voyagings than his unconventionality. The etiquette of the Imperial House of Japan is of a highly ceremonious character, but it may also be remembered that the adaptability of the Japanese has passed into a proverb.

AVIATION NOTES.

(By "Meteorite.")

In the decision he recently gave in the action brought by the builders of an aeroplane which crashed at Kingston on its way to Australia, for the recovery of certain moneys under a policy of insurance with the Union Insurance Society of Canton, Judge Bray set a precedent which very few of his colleagues who may in future have similar claims to decide can hope to follow with ease. The successful defence adopted by the Insurance Company to the effect that they had been misled about the identity of the machine they were insuring and that it had never been their intention to insure a machine taking part in such a hazardous enterprise as the Australian race would have very little chance of another successful accomplishment where the fact that under present-day conditions machines are continually undergoing a constant change in type and use were entertained.

The question of aviation insurance presents a wider range of difficulties for the computer than those encountered in other directions of insurance business, since it is a well-known fact that depreciation estimated under this heading runs to a percentage which in terms of ordinary insurance, is out of proportion to the cost of the aeroplane itself. It has been revealed that of the many insurance companies who are taking up the business of aviation insurance not one of them could calculate to a representative figure the accurate rate of depreciation on which such insurance is based. The absence of uniformity in design, the changes which are being constantly applied with the view to improvement and the varying conditions of its service obviously creates a wide range of difficulties in the way of a computation of the rate, and may lead to some novel conditions being instituted in a policy thus granted. Such conditions if they have to do with the restriction of the machine to the use documentally specified for it, or with the prohibition of any changes in the structure of the machine whilst under the period of insurance, may act as an adverse factor in the development of aviation. In the case of the claim in regard to which the Union Insurance were the defendants, one instance of the complexity in the nature of aviation insurance business has been dealt with, and the decision given will no doubt have its reflection in the terms granted by insurance companies in future.

A well-known writer on aviation in a discussion on the rate of depreciation says that under this head is considered the steady depreciation that must be taken into account whether the machine is flown or not, it being a well established fact that, despite all reasonable care that can be taken of it, if an air machine of whatever character is placed in a hangar and left there for any length of time, it loses a great portion of its former value. In the first place, the fabric will have become soggy, and certain parts of the woodwork will, in all probability, have warped. This would necessitate, sooner or later, a very complete and thorough overhauling. A still more serious factor, however, that must be considered is for that due to obsolescence, within the period of a few years the machine will have lost, practically, all of its original value. It is reasonably safe to say that the machine of to-day will not be flown in general use four years hence. The airplane is in a state of constant evolution, both as to type and construction, and this fact must not be lost sight of. This is particularly true of the present time when most of the machines on the market have been built for war purposes with the lowest possible factor of safety and the greatest possible speed and climb.

TAXING ENGLISH CRICKETERS.

A Melbourne message says:—Though Mr. Hughes' present of £25,000 was free from income-tax, a good many other people are not so fortunate. The latest to feel the probe of the Federal Taxation lance are members of the English cricketing team, who have been asked if any of their income is derived from sources within Australia. The Federal Taxation Department explains that if the answer is "yes," there is no option but to collect the tax.

BRITISH TRADE.

Severe Foreign Competition.

London, February 22. In the House of Commons, Mr. Clough asked whether British goods were suffering from cheaper foreign competition in the Empire. Mr. Kellaway replied that British exports in Empire markets were adversely affected in 1920 by the scarcity of British export coal and also by formidable American and Japanese competition, particularly cheaper American railway material, motor cars and tin plate and Japanese textiles and hardware, but the disadvantages were counterbalanced by ability to quote a firm price and definite dates of delivery. Severe European competition must shortly be anticipated. The proportion of British exports sold within the Empire had continuously and gratifyingly increased. Forty per cent. of the exports went to Empire markets in the last quarter of 1920, compared with 37 per cent. in 1913.

PRO-IRISH PROPAGANDA IN FRANCE.

Sir Hamar Greenwood's Apology to Mr. Asquith and Mr. Masterman.

London, February 23. In the House of Commons, Sir Hamar Greenwood apologised to Mr. Asquith and Mr. Masterman for the implication that they were concerned in the publication of propaganda in France mentioned in yesterday's report. Sir Hamar quoted from letterpress purporting to be signed by Mr. Masterman, but it has since been ascertained that neither Mr. Masterman nor the Liberal Publications Department is involved. [Documents besmirching the British Government in respect of their action in Ireland have been disseminated in France.]

Viscount Grey on Arbitration Treaty's Effect Respecting Japan.

London, February 23. At a banquet in his honour at the National Liberal Club, Viscount Grey referred to Anglo-American relations and declared that the people of the United States seemed very conscious of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance. His lordship discussed the possibility of the Alliance involving an Anglo-America war, but they did not seem aware of the existence of the Anglo-American Arbitration Treaty, which would make war impossible, if observed.

A libel action by the Batavia and General Plantations Trust, Ltd., against a Tonypandy printer, Mr. Robert Davies, a shareholder in the Trust, who in letters accused the Directors of the Trust of mismanagement and imputed misappropriation of unpaid dividend, was settled in the King's Bench Division to-day, the defendant agreeing to pay damages and costs and to withdraw all imputations.

THE QUESTION OF DISARMAMENT.

Britain Waiting for New U.S. Administration.

London, February 22. In the House of Commons at question time, Mr. Bonar Law stated that he thought it undesirable or at least premature for the Government to express an opinion on the question of approaching other Powers in regard to disarmament until the new United States Government was installed.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS COUNCIL IN SESSION.

Chinese and Japanese Representatives on Covenants Committee.

Paris, February 22.
Yesterday's sitting at Paris of the Council of the League of Nations adopted the conclusions of the report by Dr. Wellington Koo, the Chinese delegate, on appointing members of the Governing Body, and also approved a report by the Spanish delegate upon the composition of the Committee for Examining Amendments to the League Covenant. The Council unanimously agreed that members of that committee should have the widest political experience and such standing as would assure that their advice would have great authority with public opinion and with the Assembly of the League of Nations. Upon this understanding the Council selected eight members, amongst whom were Mr. Aiyama, representing Japan, and Dr. Wellington Koo, representing China—Vale.

Mr. Balfour to Represent Britain.

Paris, February 23.
The Council of the League of Nations has completed the formation of a committee to deal with amendments to the Covenant. The Committee will consist of eleven members, Mr. Balfour representing Britain.

U. S. President's Note Respecting Mandates and Cables.

Paris, February 22.
It is understood that President Wilson's Note, which is the first action initiated by the United States before the Council of the League of Nations, repeats the questions previously asked by Britain as regards Mesopotamian oil, and protests against the allotment of the Yap cable to Japan. Officials at Washington point out in this connection that in addition to Britain not replying to Mr. Colby's note, the United States has not received official drafts of the mandates, which should be sent here before the League finally approved them. It is understood, however, that Britain intimated that since the drafts have been submitted to the League, America's logical course would be to present her case before the Council. Apparently America's action signifies that, although she is not a member of the League, she will not submit without a protest to infringement of her rights.

FRENCH EXPORTS INCREASE, IMPORTS DECREASE.

Paris, February 23.
The Customs authorities state that French imports for January amounted to Fr. 1,982,000,000 compared with Fr. 2,495,000,000 in January of last year. Exports amounted to Fr. 1,882,000,000 compared with Fr. 1,009,000,000. Exports of manufactures increased by Fr. 537,000,000.

LABOUR CONDITIONS IN INDIA.

Legislative Assembly Favours 60-Hour Week.

Delhi, February 22.
The Imperial Legislative Assembly discussed at length the Washington Labour Convention and adopted motions urging the Viceroy to ratify the Convention. A motion by Sir Logie Watson to fix the age of child labour at eleven instead of twelve was defeated by 40 to 32. The Assembly agreed to initiate legislation giving effect to the Convention, including a 60-hour week.

DAY BY DAY.

The semi-finals in the Billiards Championship are to be played off at the V.R.C. to-night.

"Patricio."—Your letter is held over until to-morrow.

One non-fatal case of paratyphoid fever (Portuguese) was notified yesterday.

All the brothels at Macao closed on the 21st inst. as a protest against a proposed new law to have the inmates subjected to weekly medical inspections.

They have some philanthropic-interpreters in the charge room at the Central Police Station. A Chinese woman was brought up there yesterday on the charge of obstructing the street with her wares. She had no money with which to pay for the bail. Equally unthinkable was the idea of going to gaol in default of payment of this bail, as she was encumbered by the fact that a baby was in her arms. So, their gentle compassion aroused, the interpreters clubbed together to subscribe for the amount of the bail. Of this fact the Magistrate (Mr. R. E. Lindsell) was informed at the Police Court this morning, and his Worship, who had already imposed a fine of $3, decided to rescind it, and discharged the defendant with only a caution.

"MUI TSAI" CASE.

Story of a Child's Sale.

How a Chinese woman could not recognise her own name, until her husband was brought to identify her, was shown in Mr. R. E. Lindsell's court this morning. The case was one concerning three Chinese women, the first one being charged with abducting an unmarried Chinese girl, and the other two with receiving and harbouring, and with aiding and abetting to harbour the girl, respectively. Mr. A. E. Hall, who was called to defend one of the prisoners, had some difficulty in identifying his client, the fact being that he had not seen her before the opening of the case, but was specially engaged by her husband to defend her. Eventually the husband was brought into Court and he solved the problem by pointing to the woman in question.

Inspector Murphy, who prosecuted, said that on the 25th December last the first defendant, at one time an inmate of one of the public houses, and formerly a tenant on the same floor as the girl in question, who is a mui tsai, 16 years of age, revisited the house and enticed the girl to Yaumati where she was received by the second and the third defendants into their house. She was kept under confinement there until the 6th January, when she was taken to No. 50, Reclamation Street. At this house she was kept for a few days, and on the 10th January she was sold by all the three defendants to another party. The first defendant received the money, which amounted to $230. The girl had a different version as to this transaction. She said that the money was handed over in the form of a loan and that she was the security given for its repayment.

On the 13th of January, a man, who was the master of the girl until she was abducted, recognised her at the Hongkong end of the Yaumati Ferry, and, without disclosing his presence, followed her to Yaumati. She was at the time accompanied by her new mistress. At the latter's house he had the mui tsai arrested and taken to the Police Station. They were followed there later by the woman, who claimed that the girl was given her as security for a loan. Investigations were at once set afoot by the Police which led to the arrest of the second and third defendants, and the case came up before the Secretary for Chinese Affairs. No proceedings could then be taken against these prisoners, owing to the fact that the first of the defendants, alleged to be the prime mover in the plot, had not yet been located. When the Police did succeed in tracing her, at Circular Pathway on the 20th instant, the other two prisoners were at once re-arrested, and the case came up before the criminal court.

In applying for a remand, Inspector Murphy stated that the mui tsai more or less gave her consent to the business. The hearing was adjourned.

Questions in Parliament.

In the House of Commons recently, Mr. Cape asked the Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies whether he is aware that a resolution carried unanimously at a meeting of the Sanitary Board in Hongkong in May, 1919, calling for by-laws prohibiting the employment of children under the age of 14 in factories or workshops for more than 10 hours in any one day, except with the special permission of the Board, and prohibiting the employment of children and young persons under 13 in factories and workshops in any occupation which might be injurious to life, health, or limb, was thrown out by the Legislative Council of the colony; and whether this matter can be reconsidered?

Lieut.-Colonel Amery:—I am aware of the resolution referred to, which has been under the consideration of the Colonial Government. The Governor is being asked to state what incomes, if any, are in contemplation and to report generally on the question.

Mr. J. Davison asked the Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies whether his attention has been drawn to a case in the colony of Hongkong, reported in the South China Morning Post in April last, in which children were found to be carrying weights up the Peak far beyond their strength; whether the examining magistrate observed that these sights were a daily occurrence and that the only thing that could be done to prevent children in the colony from being misused was through the Legislature; and whether he can take any action in the matter?

Lieut.-Colonel Amery:—I have read a report of the case in question. The Governor is being asked what action he considers can be taken in the matter.

At a later sitting, Mr. Alfred Davies asked the Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies whether there are any Regulations in the Colony of Hongkong controlling the amount of work which a child may be called upon to do or any limit of hour for which a child may be called upon to work; and if there is any legislation in the Colony to prevent these children from being employed at work obviously injurious to health?

Lieut.-Colonel Amery:—There appear to be no such provisions, but, as I informed the hon. Member for Worthington (Mr. Cape) yesterday, the Governor is being asked for report on the matter.

SMART DANCE FROCKS.

Short, Full Dance Frocks have Longer, Narrower Skirts.

Dance Frock of Satin Brocade with a Huge Sashbow of Tulle.

A Gorgeous Dance Frock of Yellow Velvet with Crystal Beaded Train.

An Enchanting Little Frock of Pale Blue Faille.

Modes of the Moment.

Many of the new dance frocks are odd—interesting—rather than lovely. The merely pretty evening dress has gone out of fashion and every woman wants to create a sensation with her costume on the dance floor.

Gorgeous dance costumes are becoming so prevalent that by and by it will be the demure little creature who is conspicuous. This is noticeable in the case of grey dance frocks. Soft, simple little affairs in their dove grey colour, they are tremendously effective against the background of stronger colour—provided there are not too many of them at the same dance.

PEACOCK DANCE FROCKS THE RAGE.

This year the peacock is the bird of fashion. The peacock colours are especially rich and brilliant, combining deep blue, green, black, silver, bronzy green and flecks of pinkish apricot. These colours are blended in embroideries of silk and beads, and are sometimes produced by dropping one layer of chiffon over another—green over a, not and blue over the green, and stenciled touches of silver, black and apricot on the outer layer.

A peacock dance frock shows one way of using the peacock design and colours on an evening dress. These rich hues are confined to panels at either side of a frock of silver cloth. Panels of blue-green chiffon are dropped at front and back from decolletage to hem. The embroidered panels are very heavy with jet and silk embroidery, the colours: rich deep green, blue, bronze and apricot. The design does not exactly reproduce peacock plumage but cleverly suggests it. The jet-weighted panels pass up under a graceful sash and seem to be hung from the shoulder by the straps of jet and iridescent beads. This is a gorgeous dance frock indeed and a very, very expensive one. Its wearer has her hair in the new bobbed effect. An expert coiffeuse can achieve this effect with long hair; or, if one prefers, a bobbed attachment of artificial hair can be fastened around the head and the natural hair drawn over it and coiled at the back.

VELVET DANCE FROCKS STATUESQUE.

A velvet dance frock is a smart affair, and is quite the most fashionable thing one can fox trot in—but one wonders if these velvet costumes are not uncomfortable for such strenuous exercise in overheated rooms? However, as little velvet as possible is used in the bodice, so probably the wearers manage to keep cool. Two new typical velvet dance gowns are pictured. The black velvet model is particularly chic.

It is very short, à la Parisian style—in fact, the dress from the edge of the decolletage to the edge of the skirt measures not much more than a yard. Flesh-tinted tulle is swathed about the figure up to the armpits under the draped-down black velvet bodice. This bodice ends at the back of the waistline in two sash ends; one rather short and the other trailing on the floor. Of course the train—which is really a trailing sash, may be looped easily over the arm when she dances. The skirt is made of silver cloth overhung with silk net embroidered with jet and crystal beads in long loops. Separate loops fall over the embroidered ones, giving a sumptuous and rather barbaric effect. The jet and crystal girdle is a new feature—these girdles of jewels or beads are quite the thing on dance frocks now. Jet beads in two loose strings suggest a necklace, but the beads are really shoulder straps supporting the velvet bodice. Draped strips of flesh-tinted tulle pass over the shoulder and to this tulle the beads are sewed. Part of the gorgeousness and dash of this black velvet dance frock are the huge black feather fan and the coiffure band of rhinestones with a butterfly design at the front.

RED AND YELLOW USED TOGETHER.

This year reds and yellows make part of the kaleidoscope of colour approved by fashion. The dance frock pictured is of yellow velvet—a flaming shade verging on the orange; and down the train stray great, glowing red velvet flowers—a vivid scarlet in hue. The frock is made still more brilliant with many little dangling tassels of crystal beads depending over the skirt drapery and forming shoulder straps.

TRAINS LOOPED UP LIKE BUSTLES.

Sometimes instead of a long trailing sash, there is a high, puffy sash of tulle that stands out at the back of the hips coquettishly. A frock of the type is pictured; and here again you see the new girdle, this time of jewelled cabochones set in silver links. The frock is made of pale yellow satin brocade with a panel of crystal beaded pale yellow net do in the back of the skirt. The brocade is draped upward at the back to show this panel, and the upper part of the skirt is partly veiled with pleated yellow tulle, looped at the back in the big sash bow. The jewelled ornaments slung on fine silver chains around the waist and across the bodice of beaded tulle are topaz coloured.

For a debutante is the enchanting little dance frock of pale blue faille, looped up and puffed out coquettishly and in youthful fashion. The little bodice, is simple and girlish—with short lace sleeves and a very modest decolletage. It is edged with pearl beads and pearl beads are fastened over the puffed drapery of the skirt. At the sides, this skirt retires in length to reveal a coquettish petticoat of lace and pink rosebuds. The skirt is really cut in twelve panels, the longest ones at front and back. Each panel is bound with narrow silver braid and silver braid covers the seams that join the panels.

REVIVAL OF JENNY LIND BODICE.

The straight-across, off-the-shoulder evening bodice is coming in again and bids fair to replace the band and shoulder-strap bodice that has held its place—by the shoulder straps—for seasons. A youthful dance frock pictured has this straight across decolletage filled in to modest height with a bertha of crystal beaded net on which is a pink silk rose and sprays of rosebuds. This frock is made of pale pink taffeta. All the edges are piped and corded and the full skirt, cut out in scallops, is dropped over a longer, narrower skirt of the taffeta. The pointed bodice drapes backward, ending in a wide sash at the back. With this smart and fetching little dance frock goes a gorgeous feather fan in pink and grey shadings.

NEW PARASOLS.

Very Gay.

One cannot but be impressed by the gaiety of parasols this year. Most of them show at least a dozen brilliant shades and look like a whole flower garden. The colours are introduced in various ways; sometimes in brocaded silks, sometimes in embroideries of silk or beads, sometimes in variegated linings. There are parasols with bands of shirring in contrasting silk, and parasols with ostrich trimming or knotted sashes in contrasting colour. Ten and even twenty ribs are quite prevalent and the more ribs, the flatter the parasol top when opened. A very dressy parasol with twenty ribs is covered with black chantilly lace and lined with black net. The chantilly is put on in little overlapping ruffles and two butterflies of crystal and amber bead embroidery hover on the cover. The handle is of black wood with an amber cabuchon.

A NOVELTY.

The sunshade seen in the picture on the left is here shown being put to a new use in the shade, as a smart modern bag trimmed with ostrich.

AN ORIGINAL SUNSHADE.

Out in the sunshine it becomes a parasol, with the gay colours every parasol must display this year to be fashionable.

Lace is so high in fashion's favour now that lace sunshades for summertime are a foregone conclusion. There is nothing more frivolous—nothing more enchanting than a lace parasol but its daintiness must be carefully guarded between hours of use with tissue paper wrappings. Many of the new parasols have shirrings of self material. A rather pretty parasol has gathered ruffles of stiff moire ribbon, each ruffle gathered at its lower, rather than its upper, edge; so that the frill stands up from the cover. When the parasol is closed, the gathered ruffles fall downward toward the ferrule end. Sash parasols came in last season and bid fair to have a great popularity this year. The sash or wide scarf is passed around the cover, not far from the edge and is caught over each rib with several rows of shirring, put in crosswise of the scarf. The ends of the scarf are knotted and dangle over the edge of the cover—and usually tassels or balls trim the dangling ends. A parasol of the sort has a cover of green taffeta and the sash is of

WALTZING IN "TWILIGHT."

Purple Paris Fashion.

Twilight waltzing is the latest practice to be introduced in Paris dancing saloons. At frequent intervals towards the end of the evening, the brilliant lighting is switched off, leaving aglow only a few lamps coloured a rich purple.

The orchestra sinks to a subdued and sensuous waltz, and in an exotic atmosphere of velvet shadows one dimly sees closely interlaced couples gliding round the darkened room. Gradually the music dies away, but the lights are not turned on again till the dancers have returned to their seats.

SMART ACCESSORIES.

Quite a popular fail are the light-fitting caps of gold or silver cloth for restaurant wear or the opera. The one shown in the illustration is of gold lace over salmon-coloured chiffon.

Much beaded, embroidered and lace-inset hostery is seen and where it does not match the dress, it is most apt to be grey, silver or gold.

While there are many varying styles in slippers for evening wear, the favourite is the plain black patent leather slipper with a rhinestone buckle.

MANDARIN COATS.

Some Parisiennes this winter are wearing Chinese mandarin coats in the correct high-up-at-the-neck pattern and in every combination of barbaric colouring over their tea-frocks, and on many informal occasions.

WRIST AND LIP.

The very latest thing from Paris is to have bracelet and cigarette holder to match. In one of the smartest sets seen the bracelet represented a serpent of jade with gold markings and the end of the cigarette holder was jade green. A second bracelet was a delicate pink with cigarette holder to match.

The time ball on Kowloon Signal Hill is dropped daily at 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., except on Saturdays when it is dropped at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m., and on Sundays and Holidays when it is dropped at 10 a.m. only.

The ball is hoisted half mast at the 55th minute and full mast at the 57th minute. Should the ball fail to drop at the correct time, it will be lowered at five minutes past the hour and the ordinary routine repeated at the following hour, if possible.

Should the time ball be out of order the a. o. v. routine will be carried out with the flag "Z", on the storm signal mast.

Time signals are also given at night by means of three white lamps mounted vertically on the Observatory wireless mast. From 8h. 50m. to 9h. 0m. a. p.m. the lamps are extinguished momentarily at the even seconds, except at the 2nd, 28th, 50th, 52nd, and 54th of each minute.

The hours refer to Hongkong Standard Time (8 hours of east Greenwich).

AMERICA'S "UNKNOWN SOLDIER."

Contrary to a previous report in the opposite sense, the bringing back of the remains of an American soldier from Flanders for interment in the Arlington National Cemetery has been approved by Mr. Baker, Secretary of War, who predicts that Arlington will become the Westminister Abbey of America.
